

GENEVA & THE ALPS

(Mileage is estimated from each preceding city or site. Before you begin your trip, please note: For space reasons, we could not provide the most detailed map with this brochure. We recommend that you refer to the Road Atlas of Switzerland, available at most travel bookstores, or order Michelin maps, call 1-800-233-6987.)

GENEVA

INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT

Located minutes from the city of Geneva and close to the French border, the airport offers easy access to the region.

GENEVA – This graceful and cosmopolitan city on the southwestern end of Lake Geneva (Lac Léman) is the heart of Switzerland's French-speaking cantons. It is a bastion of wealth and sophistication, and shops are filled with the world's finest watches. You'll see hand-made chocolates displayed with a care normally reserved for diamonds. The winding streets of old shops and galleries. Pause at 40 Grand Rue, where philosopher/leap-named closely associated with Geneva include religious reformer John Calvin and writers such as Voltaire, Victor Hugo and Percy Bysshe Shelley. On the lake shore, the Jet D'Eau shoots up a tower of water, the tallest fountain in the world.

The Musées d'Art et d'Histoire is worth a detour, as is the sobering Musée International de la Croix-Rouge et du Croissant-Rouge, the Red Cross museum. Lined at one of the city's most scenic spots, the Boardwalk is a hike steamer to enjoy the scenic waters of Lake Geneva. Now you're ready to explore the Alps.

37 miles

LAUSANNE – Smaller, slower-paced and more down to earth than Geneva, Lausanne has a wonderful setting overlooking Lake Geneva, with the French Alps in the background. Begin with a walking tour of the steep streets of the Old Town, with its little shops and cafes, and stop at the 13th-century Cathédrale Notre-Dame, the finest Gothic cathedral in Switzerland. Then visit the luminous, white, marble-clad, 16th-century neighborhood of Lausanne where the elite are elaborate gardens. Don't miss the Musée Olympique. Lausanne, the headquarters of the International Olympic Committee is headquartered here and this splendid museum offers an elaborate presentation on the history of the games as well as artifacts ranging from track star Carl Lewis' shoes to the Olympic torch created by Philippe Starck for the Albertville Games.

12 miles

VEVEY – This exceptionally relaxed and charming city in the midst of Switzerland's finest wine districts sits on the scenic shores of the French Alps. Here you'll find the Hotel du Lac, where Anita Brookner set her eponymous novel, "Vevey's," Saturday antiques market is worth a visit, and do stroll along the lakefront park, where you'll come across a life-size statue of Charles Chaplin. "The Little Tramp" made Vevey his home for the last decades of his life. Once every 22 years or so, Vevey celebrates the Fête des Vignerons or festival of the wine growers. With some 5,000 amateur actors, this is one of Europe's

44 miles
INTERLAKEN – Literally located between the lakes, Interlaken is the central hub of the Bernese Oberland. Spin down to Thun, Aargau, and Yverdon. The nearby region is filled with scenic beauty. The nearby region is a sobering reminder of those who failed to reach the summit of Europe's most fabled peak, first conquered by Englishman Edward Whymper in 1865. By all means ride on the Corergrat, the highest open-air railway in Europe, for spectacular views of the peak and the surrounding Alps.

45 miles

SION – Sion is flanked by two small but dramatic hills, Valère and Trosselin, each once crowned with a fortress. The climb up to Valère is worthwhile, and you can explore the Episcopium, the 14th-century cathedral, which dates back to the 14th century.

18 miles

MARTIGNY – Located at one of the major crossroads in Europe, Martigny is dominated by the 13th-century Château de la Blâz, with views of the neighboring vineyards and mountains. Remnants of a Roman amphitheater, which dates back to 2AD, remain. They are well-worth seeing, as is the Pierre-Gianadda Foundation, which houses a Gallo-Roman Museum.

29 miles

CHAMONIX – The heart of the French Alps, Chamonix is one of the best of the great mountain resorts in Europe. The site of the first Winter Olympics in 1924, its town was shaped by mountaineers and skiers. Spend an hour or so in the Musée Alpin, housed in the former Chamonix Palace, to immerse yourself in the Alpine culture. But come to Chamonix anytime of the year and you'll discover endless hiking possibilities, fields of wildflowers and mountain biking.

77 miles

ZERMATT – This car-free village – you can leave yours at nearby Täsch and take the train in – has dramatic views of the jagged 14,685-foot Matterhorn, which towers above it. Zermatt is the heart of the Alps and whether you hike in the shadow of the Matterhorn, take a day hike or even contemplate the rigorous climb, there's no escaping its mythic power.

There are cafes, restaurants and a dazzling array of hotels in all price ranges here, with horse-drawn carts and electric taxis to whiz you around. The Musée Alpin records the efforts of the first mountaineers to reach the summit of Mont Blanc, which takes you into Switzerland and Italy as well. If you're time-pressed, simply board the Aiguille du Midi cable car for the dramatic views.

25 miles

MONT BLANC – Europe's highest peak, at 15,770 feet, is a challenge for world-class climbers. But the physically fit can take the cable car to the Aiguille du Midi. The nearby region is a sobering reminder of those who failed to reach the summit of Europe's most fabled peak, first conquered by Englishman Edward Whymper in 1865. By all means ride on the Corergrat, the highest open-air railway in Europe, for spectacular views of the peak and the surrounding Alps.

8 miles

ANNECY – Set on Lac d'Annecy and the shores of the Lac de St. Moritz, Annecy has one of the best settings in France. The city's delightful medieval quarter, complete with canals and arched streets, is made for strolling. In summertime, the bridges are bedecked with flowers. Markets days are the liveliest times in this lakeside city. The 15th-century church of St. Maurice d'Annecy has a chapel bearing the emblems of aristocratic families and guilds. The Palais de l'Isle is a 12th-century prison that sits squarely in the middle of the Thoiry Canal while the Château d'Annecy affords views of the old town and the lake. When it's time to depart, you'll be happy to know that Geneva Airport is but a half-hour drive away.

18 miles

MARTIGNY – Located at one of the major crossroads in Europe, Martigny is dominated by the 13th-century Château de la Blâz, with views of the neighboring vineyards and mountains. Remnants of a Roman amphitheater, which dates back to 2AD, remain. They are well-worth seeing, as is the Pierre-Gianadda Foundation, which houses a Gallo-Roman Museum.

29 miles

CHAMONIX – The heart of the French Alps, Chamonix is one of the best of the great mountain resorts in Europe. The site of the first Winter Olympics in 1924, its town was shaped by mountaineers and skiers. Spend an hour or so in the Musée Alpin, housed in the former Chamonix Palace, to immerse yourself in the Alpine culture. But come to Chamonix anytime of the year and you'll discover endless hiking possibilities, fields of wildflowers and mountain biking.

There are cafes, restaurants and a dazzling array of hotels in all price ranges here, with horse-drawn carts and electric taxis to whiz you around. The Musée Alpin records the efforts of the first mountaineers to reach the summit of Mont Blanc, which takes you into Switzerland and Italy as well. If you're time-pressed, simply board the Aiguille du Midi cable car for the dramatic views.

25 miles

MONT BLANC – Europe's highest peak, at 15,770 feet, is a challenge for world-class climbers. But the physically fit can take the cable car to the Aiguille du Midi. The nearby region is a sobering reminder of those who failed to reach the summit of Europe's most fabled peak, first conquered by Englishman Edward Whymper in 1865. By all means ride on the Corergrat, the highest open-air railway in Europe, for spectacular views of the peak and the surrounding Alps.

8 miles

ANNECY – Set on Lac d'Annecy and the shores of the Lac de St. Moritz, Annecy has one of the best settings in France. The city's delightful medieval quarter, complete with canals and arched streets, is made for strolling. In summertime, the bridges are bedecked with flowers. Markets days are the liveliest times in this lakeside city. The 15th-century church of St. Maurice d'Annecy has a chapel bearing the emblems of aristocratic families and guilds. The Palais de l'Isle is a 12th-century prison that sits squarely in the middle of the Thoiry Canal while the Château d'Annecy affords views of the old town and the lake. When it's time to depart, you'll be happy to know that Geneva Airport is but a half-hour drive away.

18 miles

MARTIGNY – Located at one of the major crossroads in Europe, Martigny is dominated by the 13th-century Château de la Blâz, with views of the neighboring vineyards and mountains. Remnants of a Roman amphitheater, which dates back to 2AD, remain. They are well-worth seeing, as is the Pierre-Gianadda Foundation, which houses a Gallo-Roman Museum.

29 miles

CHAMONIX – The heart of the French Alps, Chamonix is one of the best of the great mountain resorts in Europe. The site of the first Winter Olympics in 1924, its town was shaped by mountaineers and skiers. Spend an hour or so in the Musée Alpin, housed in the former Chamonix Palace, to immerse yourself in the Alpine culture. But come to Chamonix anytime of the year and you'll discover endless hiking possibilities, fields of wildflowers and mountain biking.

There are cafes, restaurants and a dazzling array of hotels in all price ranges here, with horse-drawn carts and electric taxis to whiz you around. The Musée Alpin records the efforts of the first mountaineers to reach the summit of Mont Blanc, which takes you into Switzerland and Italy as well. If you're time-pressed, simply board the Aiguille du Midi cable car for the dramatic views.

25 miles

MONT BLANC – Europe's highest peak, at 15,770 feet, is a challenge for world-class climbers. But the physically fit can take the cable car to the Aiguille du Midi. The nearby region is a sobering reminder of those who failed to reach the summit of Europe's most fabled peak, first conquered by Englishman Edward Whymper in 1865. By all means ride on the Corergrat, the highest open-air railway in Europe, for spectacular views of the peak and the surrounding Alps.

8 miles

ANNECY – Set on Lac d'Annecy and the shores of the Lac de St. Moritz, Annecy has one of the best settings in France. The city's delightful medieval quarter, complete with canals and arched streets, is made for strolling. In summertime, the bridges are bedecked with flowers. Markets days are the liveliest times in this lakeside city. The 15th-century church of St. Maurice d'Annecy has a chapel bearing the emblems of aristocratic families and guilds. The Palais de l'Isle is a 12th-century prison that sits squarely in the middle of the Thoiry Canal while the Château d'Annecy affords views of the old town and the lake. When it's time to depart, you'll be happy to know that Geneva Airport is but a half-hour drive away.

18 miles

MARTIGNY – Located at one of the major crossroads in Europe, Martigny is dominated by the 13th-century Château de la Blâz, with views of the neighboring vineyards and mountains. Remnants of a Roman amphitheater, which dates back to 2AD, remain. They are well-worth seeing, as is the Pierre-Gianadda Foundation, which houses a Gallo-Roman Museum.

29 miles

CHAMONIX – The heart of the French Alps, Chamonix is one of the best of the great mountain resorts in Europe. The site of the first Winter Olympics in 1924, its town was shaped by mountaineers and skiers. Spend an hour or so in the Musée Alpin, housed in the former Chamonix Palace, to immerse yourself in the Alpine culture. But come to Chamonix anytime of the year and you'll discover endless hiking possibilities, fields of wildflowers and mountain biking.

Hotel Le Mirador Kempinski Resort & Spa. On the summit of Mont-Pelerin above Vevey, this hotel commands an all-encompassing view of the Geneva region. The property is in the heart of Swiss wine country, Mont-Pelerin, Switzerland.
Tel: 41 21 925 11 12
Fax: 41 21 925 11 12
800-426-3135

Grand Hotel Victoria-Jungfrau. This stellar property, with a great spa and pool, has been welcoming guests since the 19th century. The 212 rooms have fabric-covered walls and canopied beds, with luxurious bathrooms and a full health spa. Chemin de la Vallée, Megève, France.
Tel: 33 04 50 93 09 84
Fax: 33 04 50 93 09 84

DINING

Auberge du Raisin. One of the most charming restaurants in France can be found in this 18th-century hotel in the wine village of Cully, near Lausanne. Chef Adolfo Blohberger has earned two Michelin stars and the restaurant's 9,000 bottle wine list includes many offerings from the nearby Lavaux vineyards. Place de l'Hôtel-de-Ville, Cully, Switzerland.
Tel: 41 27 966 05 55
Fax: 41 27 966 05 50
800-745-8883

Auberge du Bois Pâis. A delightful 11-room chalet, with rooms and balconies offering superb views of Mont Blanc and the surrounding mountains. The inventive cuisine, 69, Chemin de l'Herminette, Chamionix, France.
Tel: 33 04 50 53 33 51
Fax: 33 04 50 53 48 75
800-735-2478

Les Fermes de Marie. A cluster of antique chalets that hoteliers Jocelyne and Jean-Louis Sibret turned into a chic hotel that resembles a Haute Savoie village. The 52 rooms have honey-colored pine walls and antique canopied beds, with luxurious bathrooms and a full health spa. Chemin de la Vallée, Megève, France.
Tel: 33 04 50 93 09 84
Fax: 33 04 50 93 09 84

Rifflapal Resort 2022. Set at 2,222 meters or 7,290 feet, the views from this five-star hotel of the Matterhorn are unsurpassed. Reached via the Corergrat railway, this 63-room hotel has polished granite, salvaged farmhouse timbers, Oriental carpets and a delightful spa. Zermatt, Switzerland.
Tel: 41 27 966 05 55
Fax: 41 27 966 05 50
800-745-8883

Auberge du Bois Pâis. A delightful 11-room chalet, with rooms and balconies offering superb views of Mont Blanc and the surrounding mountains. The inventive cuisine, 69, Chemin de l'Herminette, Chamionix, France.
Tel: 33 04 50 53 33 51
Fax: 33 04 50 53 48 75
800-735-2478

